2024 Exhibitor Information

Introduction

Presented by The Women's College within The University of Queensland as part of the Ready to Lead program, Women's Industry Night (WIN) is a networking and career building experience that aims to connect industry groups and employers with students. WIN was established in 2022.

The event is a showcase designed to provide students with an opportunity to engage their interests and curiosities, test assumptions, and learn about the world of work. It is a mini-exhibition focused on creating value for all participants by bringing together students, Women's College alumnae, and employers to discuss and explore specific industries.

Exhibitor information

Women's Industry Night is an opportunity for exhibitors to offer valuable advice to help students kickstart their careers, learn about pathways and gain a deeper understanding about industries.

The showcase provides space-only for up to 25 stalls, all the same size (2 m x 2 m), where companies are invited to be as creative as they like. Exhibitors plan what marketing collateral they will bring; for example: a pop up banner, pop-up counter, brochures, showbags, business cards, digital device (laptop or iPad with own power source for the duration of the event).

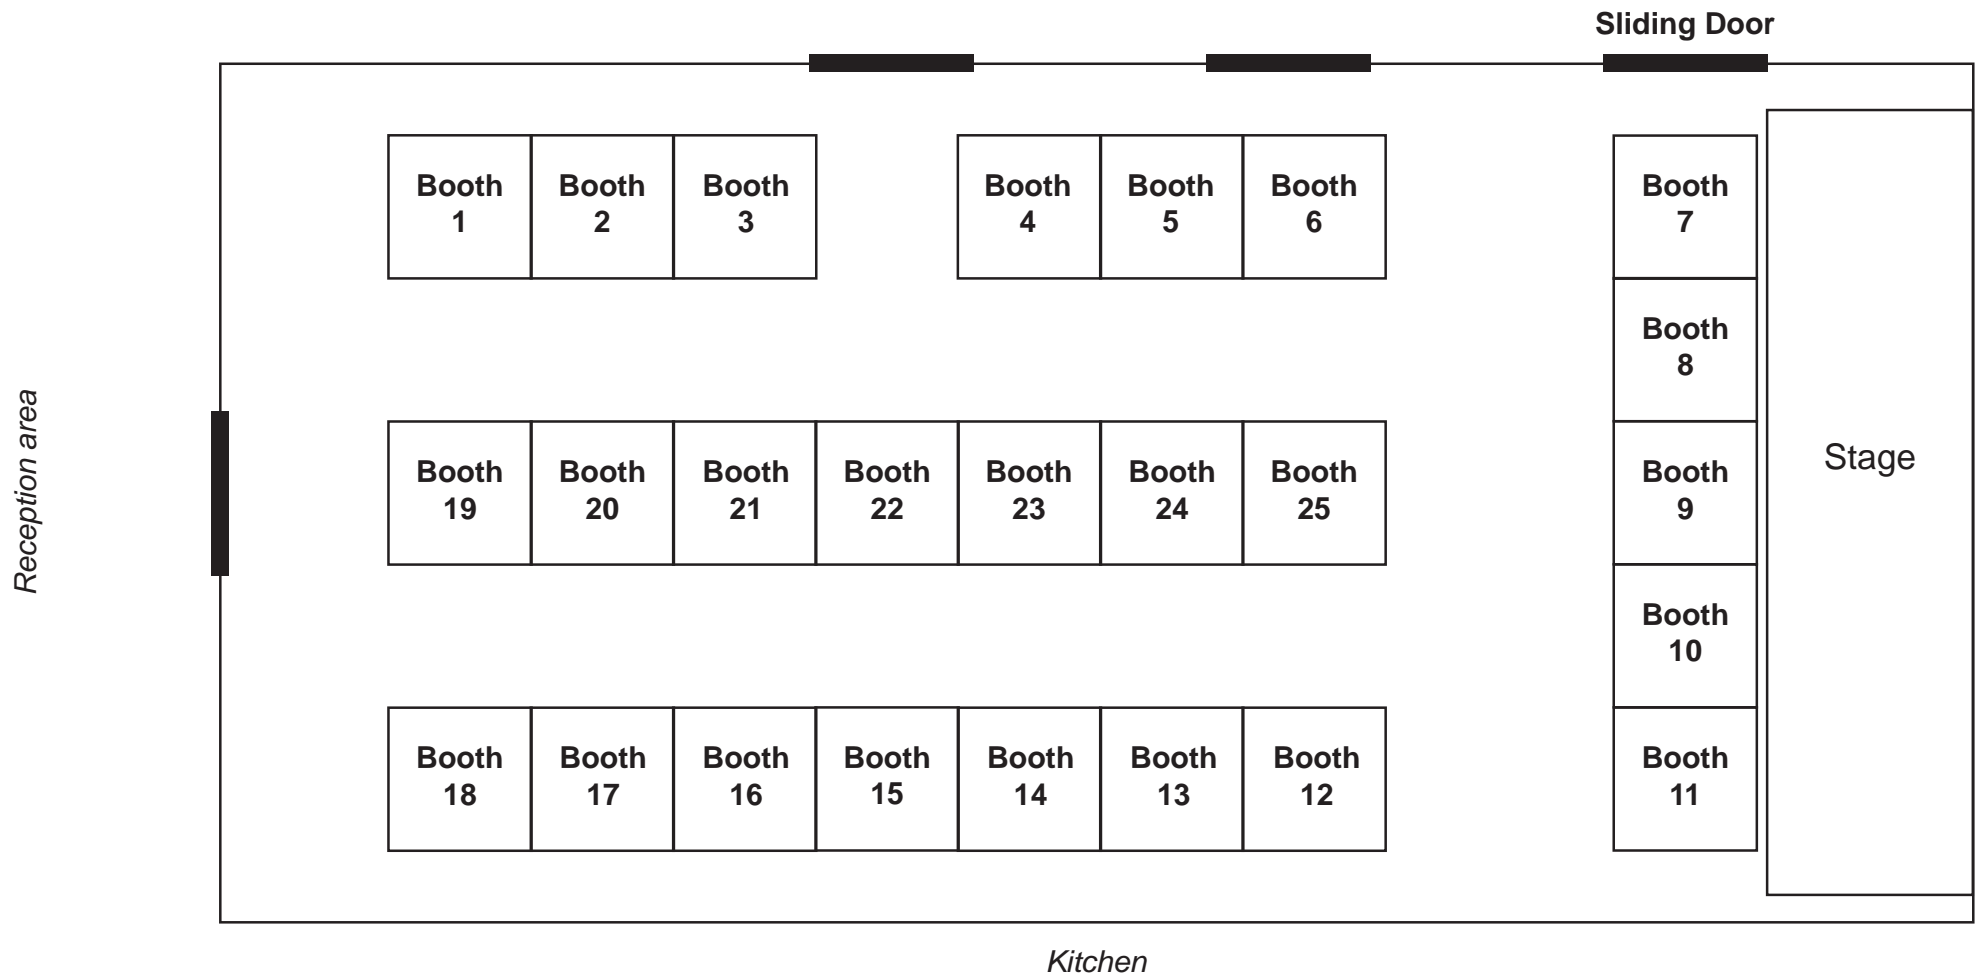

There is no cost to register or participate as an exhibitor.

Benefits for students

The Women's College has established the Women's Industry Night with the goal of providing the following benefits to its current students:

- Connect with professionals
- Build career confidence and practice networking skills
- Discover employers offering work experience and internships
- Hear about companies recruiting for vacationer and graduate roles
- Increase employability and learn from leading experts

About the venue

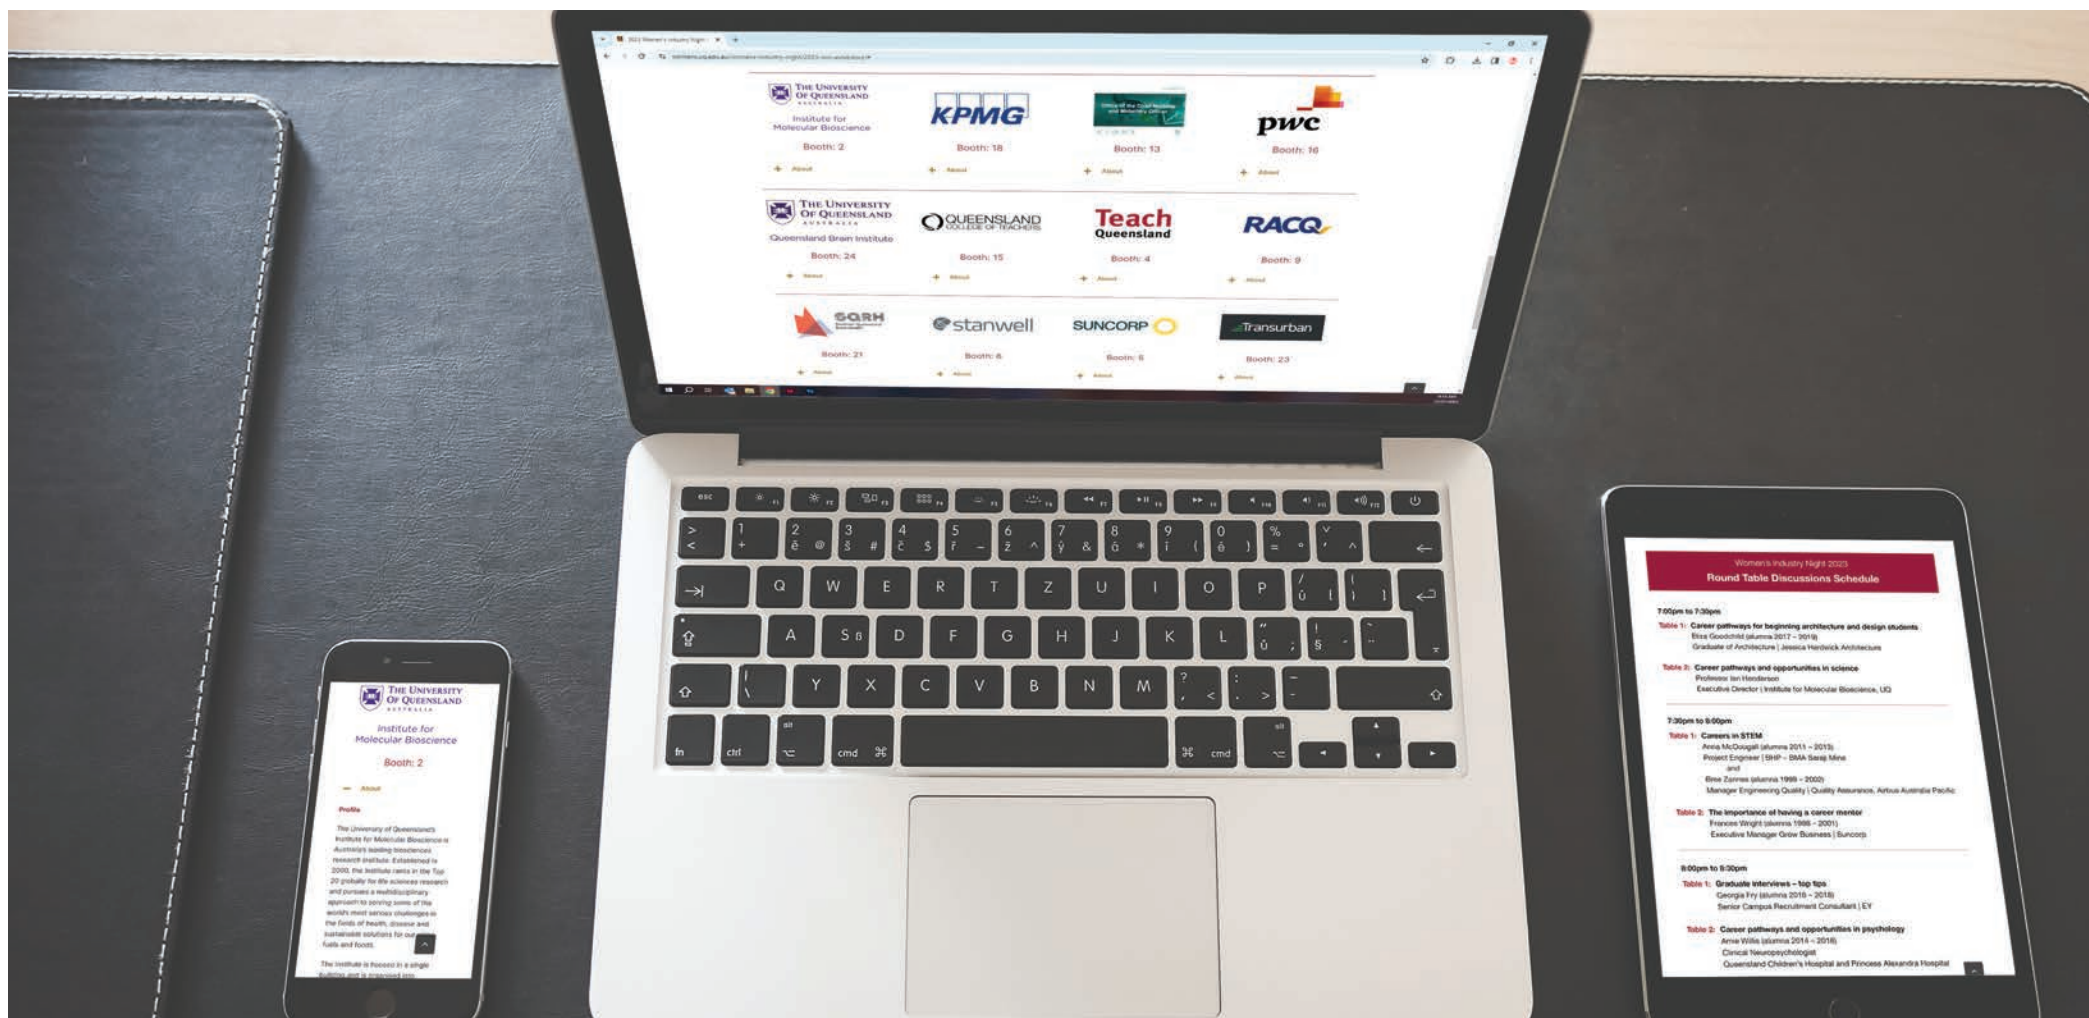

The venue, our Harriet Marks Dining Hall, has space for up to 25 stalls at a 2 m x 2 m size (4 m² space-only); no walls provided. While The Women's College cannot provide each exhibitor with a power source within the Dining Hall due to limited facilities, exhibitors are encouraged to provide their own fully charged digital devices. Canapés and a bar (not pictured in the above floorplan) will be provided to event participants and guests throughout the evening.

The floorplan above demonstrates an example layout for 25 exhibitors. This floorplan is subject to change depending on how many exhibitors participate in the 2024 event. A finalised floorplan will be provided to exhibitors closer to the event.

Exhibitor information for students

To further showcase exhibitors at the Women's Industry Night, The Women's College will publish an information webpage on the College's website. Promoted on our social media pages (Facebook, Instagram and LinkedIn) and during the event, access to this webpage will be made available to students and guests from at least one week before the event. This webpage will include each exhibitor's details and branding information. Information on the webpage will be easily read on smartphones and other devices.

2023 Women's Industry Night

Our inaugural Women's Industry Night, held on Tuesday 17 May 2022, showcased 20 of Queensland's leading organisations in an exhibition-style event.

In 2023, the event grew to showcase 25 exhibitors.

At both events, companies offered valuable advice to help students kickstart their careers, learn about career pathways and gain a deeper understanding of industries.

In conjunction with the exhibition, round table discussions prove very popular, with guest presenters speaking about topics ranging from careers in STEM, finance, allied health, the importance of having a mentor and using an internship to your advantage, to name a few.

"On Thursday night, I had the privilege of returning to my alma mater, The Women's College, to attend the Women's Industry Night. It was an evening filled with empowering conversations with students early in their studies. EY presented a session on insights and strategies to make your applications stand out. The enthusiasm in the room was contagious, and I left feeling inspired by the future female leaders I had the pleasure of connecting with."

"We are excited to attend the Women's Industry Night on the 25th of May and can't wait to be inspired by professionals from across a number of industries at the event. More importantly we hope to spend the night amongst the best and brightest students and young alumnae as they shape their futures."
